Declaration of personal and fiscal data

MODULO IN ITALIANO

This form must be filled out by all external collaborators of the University. It serves to provide the data needed for a correct assignment of the fiscal professional level of services provided, following current regulations. Given the complexities of the regulation, we have prepared an on-line form which aims to simplify compilation. Correct compilation of the form will ensure more efficient treatment of your compensation and punctual payment. According to the kind of assignment your services have, the form must be filled out in one or two moments, and will require no more than 10 minutes each time. If the compilation procedure is interrupted, you can return to it by using the user name and password which you chose and received via e-mail. For any problems in filling out the form contact the e-mail address regimefiscale@unibocconi.it

According to the Italian tax rule (art. 2 par. 2 of DPR n. 917/1986) an individual is considered an Italian tax resident if, for more than 183 days in one year (calendar year from January to December):

- He/she is enrolled in the Record of Italian resident population (Anagrafe); or
- He/she has his/her domicile in Italy; or
- His/her residence is located in Italy, pursuant to art. 43 of the Italian Civil Code or
- He/she is present in Italy physically;

If only one of the above four conditions is met for more than 183 days, you are considered an Italian tax resident.

On the contrary, if none of the above four conditions is met for more than 183 days you are considered a non-Italian tax resident.

You will be asked to complete the “Tax Policy” field as follows:

TAX POLICY

In order to choose your preferred tax policy, we request that you sign the relevant points below.
You are required to sign ONLY if a dual-income tax policy agreement exists between your country of residence and Italy.
Check the current conventions at: website of the International Tax Observatory at the Department for Tax Policy of the Economics and Finance Ministry.
If such an agreement does not exist, you will automatically be subject to Italian income tax rules &

You declare to not practice any profession in Italy, on your own or as an employee in a company or in any other institution. (The remuneration received from Università Bocconi will be taxed according to the tax regulation of this country in case there is not an agreement between Italy and your country).

Yes - No

You declare you will stay in Italy for a period less than 183 days .

Yes - No

You request that your remuneration (scholarship/collaboration) is taxed at source at the withholding rate of 30%, as per Italian tax regulation.

Yes - No

SAVE HOMEPAGE

Answer “yes” if you plan to stay for less than 183 days from January to December of the current year.
You are considered a resident for tax purposes if you spend in Italy at least 183 days (or 184 in a leap year) in a tax year.

If you want to be taxed at 30%, answer “Yes”. In your Income Tax Return you will get a tax credit for the taxes paid in Italy.

If you do not want to be taxed, you can answer “No”.
Bocconi will verify if it is possible to apply the tax exemption provided by the Agreement For The Avoidance Of Double Taxation signed by Italy and your country of fiscal residence.
Please consider that in this case it is mandatory to send your tax residence certificate.

Finally, save.
